The hipped roof is broken on the east, south and west by gables capping deeply projecting two-and-a-half story bays which are square on the second story and have chamfered corners on the first. A hipped porch wraps around the front bay to the principle entry recessed in the eastern bay. The porch is supported by turned columns and ornamented by a narrow screen with turned members along the top accented by lacey filagree. In the rear, there is a one story hipped roof extension with a frame porch similarly treated to that in the front.		27. OTHER SURVEYS IN WHICH INCLUDED

The fenestration appears to have been altered, perhaps substituted by such arrangements as the paired windows on the front facade and the tripartite grouping on the west facade. The windows are rectilinear and are framed by simple mouldings. There is a brick veneer base on the front facade. The large addition in the rear was made in 1965.
43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE 3 Maggie A. Duncan, widow of John H. Duncan, was first listed at this address in 1889. The water permit of 1888 was in her name as well. Although not architecturally outstanding in itself, this building is compatible in age, use, and building material, and would therefore contribute to the establishment of an historic district in the Harris Addition area of high quality 19th and early 20th Century residential buildings.

The eastern section of the house is capped by a steeply pitched hipped roof. A gabled roof stretches over the attached garage on the western side. The front entry and eastern bay on the front facade are accented by wide gable ends enlivened by half-timbered curvilinear ornamentation applied to the stucco. The enclosed brick entry porch projects from the plane of the front facade. The windows are rectangular and paired on the eastern facade.
43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE 3
This house was built in 1936 by Max Messenger, the Manager of Beaty's Grocery Store which was built in 1933, directly north on the site of the former Garfield School built in 1882 and razed in 1932. Dr. Clement C. Dumont made a major addition to the house in 1959 at building permit cost of $10,000. Before the property transferred to Mr. Pike in 1890, it was first owned by the W.M. Wyeth Co., then transferred to Sizzie K. Garrett. George S. Garrett of the Ransone, Garrett and Brewster boot and shoe company was listed as living at 1819 Jule in the 1889 City Directory. Despite the removal of the entry porch shown on the 1897 Sanborn Map, the building is well intact and would contribute strongly to the establishment of an historic district in the Harris Addition.	44. 42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES This duplex was symmetrically built in mirror image. The east and west facades are broken in the center by two-and-a-half story tripartite bays capped by gabled dormers with Palladian windows. The front entries are paired in the middle bay accented by a hipped dormer, and flanked by wide rectilinear windows with leaded glass transoms on the first story and shallowly projecting tripartite bays on the second. The full front porch with hipped roof is supported by brick piers surmounted by Ionic capitals
43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE ² The building permit of 1903 listed a construction cost of $5,000. and was in the name of Gustave Schumacker, a well established grocer. Schumacker did not reside here, so the duplex was probably built as an investment. This turn-of-the-century duplex retains much of its neo-Classical detailing and would contribute strongly to the establishment of an historic district in the Harris Addition.

FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES The influence of the International Style is reflected in the lack of ornamentation and rectilinear lines of this building as shown in the flat roof; unadorned parapet; long, shallow, flat canopy stretching across two-thirds of the front facade; the low, brick planter in front horizontally echoing the canopy above; rectangular windows with horizontal panes and no lintels; and the use of a darker buff brick from the sill level down further emphasizing the horizontality. Red brick was used on the east and north facades.
43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE 4 This office building was constructed in 1953 at a cost listed on the building permit of $20,000. The Prudential Insurance Company of America had an office here in 1955. This building would be an intrusion in an historic district established in this area of the Harris Addition which contains many high quality 19th and early 20th Century residential buildings.
44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS The building is sited on a high bank supported on the south and west by a coursed, rock-faced stone retaining wall which has a wide stairway opening onto the corner.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES The Church building strongly addresses the southwest corner where the principle entry is located in a three-story square tower. The south and west main church facades of multi-toned brick are capped by wide, stepped gable ends terminating the roof's crossed gables accented by a fleche. Paired louvered windows on the belfry and the window groupings of three centered on each of the two main facades are set in pointed arch lintels with Gothic style tracery. The main entry and the entry to the office-Sunday School section on the north are set in ogee arches. The second story of this northern section is half-timbered.
43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE This landmark calibre building houses the congregation of the Westminster Presbyterian Church for which it was built in 1895. The church was designed by Walter Boschen, who also designed many other prominent buildings in Saint Joseph.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES The low hipped roof has a boxed cornice with fascia accented by carved wooden brackets. The flush lintels are segmentally arched and formed by radiating headers on the front section; on the rear extension there are flush rectilinear lintels. In the southwest corner, there is a screened-in porch supported by Doric columns. Doric columns are used also on the full length front porch which has a boxed cornice on the first story and an enclosed second story.
43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE 2 The water permit for this property was listed in the name of Joseph Hayward, Sr., the Roadmaster for the Kansas City, St. Joseph and Council Bluffs Railroad, in 1881, the same year he was first listed at this address. The two story front porch was probably added in 1909 when a building permit was taken out on the property. In spite of this large porch which obscures much of the front facade, the original profile and fenestration remain and render the building a strong contributing member of a potential historic district in the William T. Harris neighborhood of high quality 19th and early 20th Century residential architecture.
44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS This corner property slopes toward the west and is enclosed by a chainlink fence. There is a wooden carport on the north side of the building.

Dr. Richmond purchased both properties from Maggie Harris Chapman, the daughter of William Harris for whom the Harris Addition was named. This formerly high quality Italianate building was been drastically altered, particularly in the treatment of the windows. However, the bracketed cornice line, lintels and massing remain which make restoration possible and render the building a contributing member of a possible Harris Addition historical district.	44. 42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES The highly varied massing of this house is characteristic of the Queen Anne Style. The steeply pitched hipped roof is broken by hipped dormers facing east and west, a wide gable surmounting a two and a half story projecting square bay on the front facade, and a gablette cantilevered over a two story tripartite bay on the south facade. The front porch is supported by turned columns and members of a top screen framed by brackets, and has a gable end piercing through its hipped roof and accenting the entry in the northern bay. These gable ends and the south projecting bay are sheathed in decorative wooden shingle.		25. OPEN TO PUBLIC? YES () NO (<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>)
43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE This beautifully preserved and excellent example of the late Queen Anne style would contribute significantly to the establishment of an historic district in the Harris Addition which has many high quality 19th and 20th Century residential buildings. This house was built for the Morton family in 1898. The building permit was in the name of James Morton, however, he was not listed as residing here. Marmaduke B. Morton a cashier at the Bartlett Brothers Real Estate Company, was listed at this address for many years, along with Mrs. Hannah Morton, widow of David Morton.		26. 42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES The predominant architectural features of this building are the polygonal turrets in the northeast and southeast corners of the front facade. The turrets are ornamented by diamond-shaped windows along the roofline. There are gabled dormers on the north and east sides. The full length front porch has a ballustrade, Doric columns paired at the corners, and a boxed cornice. It is approached by a high concrete stoop. There are three front entries: one on either end and a more elaborate one in the center with sidelights.	5. OTHER NAME(S)
43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE 2 The water permit for this property was taken out in 1903 by Charles E. Gill, of Gill's Livery, who lived to the south at 2015 Francis. There was a small structure on this site as early as 1897, according to the Sanborn Insurance of that year. However, by 1911, as shown on the Sanborn Map of that year, this earlier structure had been replaced by this large one, reinforcing 1903 as the date of construction. Although the original surface treatment has been sheathed in siding, many of the architectural details and profile lines remain, rendering this building a strongly contributing member of a potential historic district in the Harris Addition area.	6. TOWNSHIP RANGE SECTION
44. DESCRIPTION OF ENVIRONMENT AND OUTBUILDINGS The building is positioned close to the street and is lined on the north by a drive.

42. FURTHER DESCRIPTION OF IMPORTANT FEATURES The predominant architectural feature of this building is a steeply pitched gable roof which addresses North 21st St. perpendicularly. On the north side, the roof reaches down to the first story where it joins a hipped skirt forming a front entry porch canopy running half way across the front facade. This high front gable is further emphasized by a wide, stepped brick chimney breaking through the apex of the gable end. Facing north is a large gabled dormer with a similarly lop-sided gable end, creating a picturesque aspect.	40. VISIBLE FROM PUBLIC ROAD? YES (X) NO ()	4. PRESENT LOCAL NAME(S) OR DESIGNATION(S)
43. HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE 3 This house was built in 1922 by Richard D. Denicke who built and owned the neighboring grocery store at 2100 Jule. The store was constructed in 1910. Although later in period and style, this building is compatible in use and proportion with the surrounding historic area of high quality 19th and early 20th Century resident buildings and would contribute to the establishment of an historic district.	41.
