42. Further Description of Important Features The entrance bay at the northeast corner of the main facade features a cylindrical turret terminating in a conical roof. The entrance contains a single leaf door with sidelights, and is sheltered by a pedimented extension. An eyebrow roof dormer pierces the east roof slope.

43. History and Significance

This may have originally been a duplex. It appears to have been a duplex in 1901, when the residents were William Wright (a bookkeeper for the Emery, Bird and Thayer Dry Goods Company) and Robert Hawkins (a cashier for the same dry goods company). A building permit in 1947 reveals that the two unit dwelling was expanded into 6 apartment units.

42. Further Description of Important Features The irregular plan of the residence is created by the number of extensions of the roofs of both the primary and secondary facades. The main facade faces west onto Harrison. Coursed stone forms the base for the porch and much of the first story. A hipped roof supported by stone piers forms a porch over the north bay of the west facade. Balancing the 1st floor porch extension, on the south bay of the second story, is a gable roof porch. Squat, cylindrical piers terminating in Corinthian capitals support the gable of the porch roof.
43. History and Significance The earliest known resident of this house (1900) was Louis Meyer, President of the Meyer Jewelry Company.
44. Description of Environment and Outbuildings Vacant land is north and south of this house. To the west is another residence.				3347 Harrison
