The two outbuildings, which display rubble stone, appear to have survived from a farmstead. It is estimated that these buildings were constructed c. 1940. Both structures have been altered over the years; roofs are not original and openings have been modified, as well. Due to the modifications, these two structures do not appear to be eligible for listing.

This National Folk residence, built in 1930 and constructed of field limestone, remains remarkably intact from the original design, with minimal alteration to the exterior. The solid stone fence at the perimeter of the property is a later addition and rare to the structures located in the Jasper and Newton County survey area. While it does not appear to be eligible as a single site, it may be eligible as an associated property type as defined in an Ozark Native Rock MPDF.

County records state that this home was constructed in 1890. At a later date, the main façade was modified with a Craftsman style porch, yet the overall historic integrity of the original building has not been compromised. While it does not appear to be eligible as a single site, it may be an associated property type as defined in a potential Ozark Native Rock MPDF.

This complex contains the main residence (frame construction) which was built in 1916 and later remodeled. The associated outbuildings constructed of Ozark Native Rock include the following: storm shelter, chicken house, well house, dairy barn and a silo building. These outbuildings have been renovated during the last c. 10 years. It appears that the entire farmstead/cattle ranch may be eligible for listing as a district and/or as associated property types as defined in a potential Ozark Native Rock MPDF. According to the owner, the ranch was established in 1932.

40. (cont.) Description of environment and outbuildings. Expand box as necessary, or add continuation pages.

Sited on 62.57 acres in Shoal Creek Township, the Saginaw Ranch has a good collection of Ozark Native Rock outbuildings dating from 1932 (featuring rubble and split stone) and several buildings that were constructed in the last 20 years.

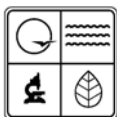

41. (cont.) Further description of important architectural features. Expand box as necessary, or add continuation pages.

All of the Ozark Native Rock structures on the property are outbuildings. The majority of the plan shapes are rectangular or square. They contain a combination of both historic and replacement windows, ranging from fixed to 1/1 panes. These structures have single stories or a high-loft space above a single story, as in the case of the silo building. Roofs are galvanized metal in material and are either shed or gable in type. Simpler buildings, such as the wellhouse and silo, have single bays. More complex, yet still utilitarian buildings such as the dairy barn and chicken house, have multiple bays.

21. (cont.) History and significance. Expand box as necessary, or add continuation pages.

The central unit of this home was built c. 1934. At an unknown date the house was enlarged at the north and south facades. Due to the alterations the home and the outbuildings no longer retain historic integrity. As such, they do not appear to be eligible for listing as a single site or in a potential Ozark Native Rock MPDF.
